Huggins Clan Then Collects Five Runs for 9-4 Victory; "Rip" Collins Wins First Contest by 7-3; Six Home Runs Garnered in the Afternoon

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 .- So far as the Yankees are concerned the American League season is now officially over. They wound up their schedule this afternoon in a double-header with Connie Mack's tail-enders and won both sections of the bargain bill. They took the curtain raiser by the score of 7 to 3 and grabbed the afterpiece by a count of 9 to 4, but had to go eleven innings to do it.

but had to go eleven innings to do it.

Both games were marked by heavy thitting, no less than six home runs being made in the course of a tumultucus afternoon. Babe Ruth made one in the ninth inning of the first game, thereby shoving his total for the season up to fifty-four. The other four haggers were contributed by Clarence "Tilly" Walker, who made two, and Wally Pipp, Duffy Lewis and Jimmy Dykes, who delivered one each.

The Yanks used but one pitcher in each game—Rip Collins in the first and Bob Shawkey in the second—while Connie Mack was forced to take a second guess in each contest. Roger Peckinpaugh bobbed up with a boil on his neck and Ward played short, Meusel covering third base.

Mackmen Score First

The Athletics were the first to score in the curtain raiser. With one out in the opening round, Charley High tripled and Ivy Griffin walked, Perkins's single to left brought High home and both runners advanced on Collins's wild throw to catch Griffin off second. Dugan flied to Lewis in short left and Johnson to Ruth in deep center.

The Yanks tied it up in the second. Del Pratt opened fire with a single to center and loped down to second on Lewis's infield out. Meusel fouled to Dugan, but Vick uncorked a ponderous triple and Pratt clattered home. Hannah's gentle roller to Dugan left Vick stranded at third.

Clarence Walker started the home guards' half of the second with a single to left, and Gallaway walked. Harris struck out, but Dykes drove a single to center, and Walker scored. High reached first on Pratt's fumble, A lull ensued until the fifth, in which the Yanks knotted the count again.

Meusel singled to deep short and was forced at second on Vick's savage smash to Dykes. Hannah reached first on Dykes's fumble, and, after Collins had fanned, Aaron Ward lined a single to center, bringing Vick across. Another boot by Dykes gave Pipp a life and brought Babe Ruth to bat with all the bases filled. The Infant Swatigy struck out.

That ended the scoring until he eleventh. With two out in the second extra inning Sam Vick walked and Hoffman singled. Shawkey singled, scoring Vick, and when Johnson's wild throw got away from Johnny Walker Hoffman also scored, Shawkey going to third. Ward walked and scored behind Shawkey on Pipp's home run to the left field bleachers. Ruth singled to right, but Pratt closed the round with a line fly to High.

Ruth vs. Tesreau

"Babe" Ruth and Carl Mays, of the Yankees, will appear at Dyckman Oyal on Sunday as members of a picked téam which will oppose Jeff Tesreau's Bears. It has been an earnest desire of Big Jeff to find out just what system the "Babe" used in knocking out so many home runs. Tesreau still has an idea that he is as good a moundsman as when he played with the Giants. The answer will probably be found Sunday when the "Babe" gets a smite at the Ozark Mountaineer's slants.

The only complaint in this case would come from the thieves and murderers, who might have a just kick in being forced to associate with the crooked gamblers and the crooked ballplayers convicted of the dirtiest crime in sport.

Another Lesson

It is astonishing that the American League has taken such little action with this year-old scandal on the tip of every tongue. The fan can be persuaded to give the game another chance-but not unless high school tennis champion of the District of Columbia, and the 1918 junior champion of the district, a winner in last year's interscholastic doubles, has entered New York University. Knapp is a graduate of the Central High School, Washington, D. tude and if it were not generally understood that a vast majority of players were honest, the struggle to get back would be even more serious than it is—if not altogether hopeless.

But, even as it is, there are thousands upon thousands of loyal fans who have been badly stunned.

For years they have thundered not only their belief in baseball's complete honesty—but they have shown how it was impossible to throw a game. Not physically impossible—but too uncertain a proposition for gamblers to take up.

The Hand of Blight

But a professional gambler can wreck any sport in the world—even baseball. The day one of these birds of prey begins to flutter around a sport, on that day the blight begins.

Including pitchers, there are something like 250 regulars attached to both major leagues.

Knowing human nature, the gambler quictly figures out that from 250 men in any sport or profession there would be a certain number of crooks or a certain number of weak-souled players who could be tempted.

Not very many, but only a few were needed.

Not very many, but only a few were needed.

Two or three men on two or three ball clubs would be quite enough for a killing.

Four per cent of the 250—ten in all—well distributed, would be sufficient to protect any series of bets.

Although New York completed its schedule with a double victory over the Athletics, the Yankees were formally and finally put out of the race so far as the pennant is concerned by Cleveland's victory. The Indians have four games to play and if the team loses all of them they still would be one game ahead of the Yankees. Yankees.

To settle the race between Cleveland and Chicago the former to win must take three of the remaining four games, provided Chicago wins the three remaining games on its schedule. If Cleveland should do no better than break even and the White Sox should win their three games each would finish the season with ninety-eight won and fifty-six lost.

There is still a mathematical pos-sibility of the Yankees tying the White Sox for second place, but in order to bring this about the White Sox would have to lose their three

Series Likely As Reward to Local Players

Issue Put Up to Owners of Giants; Would Not Conflict With Brooklyn Dates

By W. O. McGeehan

There may be a city series between the Yankees and the Giants, provided the local National League club owners consent to the acceptance of the challenge issued by the Yankee players. Colonel T. L. Huston, part owner of the Yankees, announced yesterday that the club had no particular interest in the series excepting as a sporting proposition, but that he believed it proposition, but that he believed it should be played in order to reward the players on the two New York City longs," "stouts," "long

"The argument has been made that this would be a purely commercial proposition," he said. "It will not be, as far as the club owners are concerned. We would get something like 8 per cent of the money taken in. But we have a lot of young and earnest players on the club who are deserving of some sort of reward. Because some baseball players have been shown to be crooks is no reason why the others should be made to feel that they are in a discredited business.

"This series would be on its merits. A lot of people of greater New York want to know which is the better team. It will be up to the players. It would not approve of barnstorming, but it seems to me that this is just a natural rivalny, and that it would make a sporting event worth watching." "The argument has been made that

Would Avoid Conflict

And so the matter of the city series rests. Some of the magnates are known to feel that the city series, in view of the revelations at Chicago would be a mistake. But there is one thing certain the certain—the gambling fratetrnity would fight very shy of this series. The owners of the Yankees assert that they would not permit the dates of the city series to conflict in any way with the Brooklyn end of the current world series.
